A DEEP LAID CONSPIRACY.

It is rather strange how ready some people will shout thief at their neighbor and the only cause for it is that they think to avert suspicion from themselves. The Reno Journal, in a spasmodic effort, has disclaimed against the people voting against the disfranchisement of any person who may have served in the rebel army. That would be perfectly right if he stopped there, but, like all other men who never smelled powder he charges the Republican party and speakers with being the only, and all the ones that indorse that statement. He does that from the fact and it is about the only fact that he does know that the Republican party put down the rebellion, the greatest the world ever saw, and he takes it for granted that the same men that fought the battles to a successful issue are the first to strike a fallen foe.—Enterprise.

We do not think that any of the papers yet have reached the true inwardness of the amendment that if passed, disfranchised residents of this State who in years gone by fought in the Confederate army. The amendment as it now stands is the result of a deep laid scheme to prevent some prominent man from holding office in Nevada.

Such an amendment, if it became part of the constitution, would disfranchise Judge Fitzgerald of Eureka. Judge Fitzgerald, at the time the necessary legislative machinery was first put in motion to make the amendment a part of the constitution, was prominently spoken of as a candidate for the Supreme Bench.

In the opinion of the APPEAL the contemplated amendment was smuggled through the legislature to put Judge Fitzgerald out of the way.

Now we do not admit that the party or parties, most likely to be benefited, had any knowledge of the scheme by which one of the best men in this State was to be retired from politics.

In the absence of proof it would be a serious charge to make.

The amendment originated in the Senate, and it might be that some senator who had some object in keeping Judge Fitzgerald off the bench or was working in the interest of some corporation who feared it could not be done by Judge Fitzgerald if on the bench.

The plot was the most contemptible ever conceived in Nevada's politics and will be stamped out by the voters this fall.

The history of the amendment is being carefully traced and the men who incubated the scheme will be shown up to the public before election day.

Not Yet.

The News promised its readers if it was mistaken about Jones to make proper apology. So far no apology has appeared.—APPEAL

The News will apologize as soon as it is convinced that it is wrong. It still believes it is right and will cling to that belief until stronger proof than that already brought forward is produced.—News.

Mr. Harry Day informed the APPEAL editor that he believed every cent was in the State Land Office safe that belonged there. Mr. Day was one of the News' experts. That paper declines to believe its expert. The experts were selected to find a shortage. Not finding any must have been quite a disappointment to the News, but it must accept the testimony of its own witness.

It will be worth a good deal to the Eastern Gold Trust operators to have Nevada down the Silver party this year. The question with them now is, how much is it necessary to open?
